To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing on behalf of Ryley Emery. I have coached and known Ryley since he was 12 years old. Since the day I met Ryley, he has been a leader on and off the field. He has shown the will and desire to get better and want to win. He plays hard and does what is asked of him.

Ryley has the abilities and talent to play at the collegiate level. His work ethic is what will take him further than others. Ryley's bat is a big factor for playing in college, he has a good approach and provides good pop for his position and size. In my opinion, Ryley projects as a second baseman at the next level. If he continues to get stronger and if his velocity increases, like it has been, Ryley can play shortstop as well.

Ryley will be an asset to a program. He will take care of his business in the classroom. He will also provide leadership to others within the program. I suggest getting a chance to see him play and to speak with him to see his passion.
